Says United States Will Protect Its Gold Supply Soon to Have $800,000,000 Available.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo had a long conference yesterday with the New York bankers on measures to be adopted in the financial situation growing out of the European war crisis.

Those who attended the conference were Max May, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company; August Urrich, of Ladenburg, Thalman & Co.; Paul M. Warburg, of Kepha Look of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Paul M. Warours, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who has been nominated to the Federal Reserve Board; Franklin Q. Brown, of Redmond & Co.; Adolph C. Miller, of the Federal Re-serve Board, and John Skelton Williams,

Later the Secretary reported to Presi-dent Wilson the result of the conference, and at the President's suggestion took an afternoon train for New York, where he planned to continue the conferences with the bankers preparatory to the meeting of the New York Clearing House Association today. The bankers who were at the Treasury Department also left for New York in the afternoon. Mr. McAdoo stated at the conclusion of his conference that various method had been under consideration for deal-ing with the present domestic and in-ternational situation. He said no definite conclusion had been reached. The action of the European nations in placing their currency on a paper basis, he said, made it necessary that the United States take adequate steps to protect its own gold supply.
